

PETITA

Jurnal Kajian Ilmu Hukum dan Syariah

PETITA: Jurnal Kajian Ilmu Hukum dan Syariah (PJKIHdS) is an international and double-blind peer reviewed journal published by Lembaga Kajian Konstitusi Indonesia (LKKI), Fakultas Syariah dan Hukum, Universitas Islam Negeri Ar-Raniry Banda Aceh, Indonesia. The journal publishes research articles, conceptual articles, reports field studies, legal theory, legal philosophy, constitutional law, legal debate, socio-legal, and other recent issues relating to case law. The articles of this journal have been published every six months (2 issues per year). PETITA journal aims to deliver a multi-disciplinary forum for the discussion of thoughts and information among professionals concerned with the boundary of law and sharia. The Editors and Publisher wish to inspire a discourse among the specialists from different countries whose various legal cultures afford fascinating and challenging alternatives to existing theories and practices. Priority will therefore be given to articles which are oriented to a comparative or international perspective. The journal will publish significant conceptual contributions on contemporary issues as well as serve in the rapid dissemination of important and relevant research findings. PETITA journal has received papers from academicians on law and sharia, law theory, constitutional law, research finding in law, law and philosophy, law and religion, human rights law, international law, and constitutionality of parliamentary products, and other law topics.

This journal is indexed by:

HARVARD
LIBRARY